County Man To March In Inaugural Parade

Airman First Class James M. Beard, age 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. Layke M. Beard of Box 117, Frank, W. Va., is one of the 3,600 U. S. Air Force men chosen to participate in the 1961 Presidential Inaugural Parade.

Airman Beard will be a member of the Headquarters Command Composite Wing in the Parade that will take place in Washington, D. C., on January 20, 1961, immediately after John F. Kennedy is sworn in as the 35th President of the United States.

At the present time Airman Beard is a member of the 1100th Supply Squadron at Bolling AFB, Washington, D. C.

The Parade, which is expected to last two and one-half hours, will begin at the Capitol Building and proceed up Pennsylvania Avenue past the White House where the new President and Vice-President will review the marching units.

The Parade will be telecast nationally and will feature marching units and floats from hundreds of civilian groups as well as from all of the military services.

Fumes Overcome Man, Car Knocks Over Parking Meter Near Hospital

John R. Stadaford of Fairmont will always remember Marlinton; probably with mixed feelings. Perhaps unhappy because he got sick here or maybe thankfulness because he got sick here.

Here is the story as related by Chief of Police Stanley Wooddell:

At about 2:10 a.m. Monday morning Wooddell was called to the phone by a man saying he felt sick and dizzy and wanting to know how to find a room for the night. He had rung the night bell at the Alpine Hotel but could not rouse anyone. Wooddell gave him directions on how to reach the Marlinton Hotel just two blocks away, and went back to bed.

About ten minutes later the phone again roused Wooddell. It was the same voice saying he had been unable to find the place and wanting further instructions as he was getting sicker all the time. Stanley patiently repeated the instructions. Then he slipped out on the front porch where he could see the Marlinton Hotel to watch for the car. None ever came that way but he saw a car come from South Third Avenue and turn west on main street. A little later he heard a car horn blow a couple of times.

Wooddell had hardly returned to the house after deciding the caller had given up and was leaving town when the phone rang a third time. This time it was the night nurse at Pocahontas Memorial Hospital saying a car had just knocked off a parking meter in front of the Presbyterian Church and had gone carbon monoxide had just about completed its deadly mission.

After spending the night in the hospital Mr. Stadaford had his brother come from Fairmont on the bus and accompany him home. The brother, when told of the police's suspicion at first that the sick man had been drinking, said that he didn't drink at all.

The brothers Stadaford smilingly paid the town $35.00 to replace the broken parking meter and, after squaring the hospital account, started for Fairmont again (with the car windows open) thankful that the car had run off the road where it did, near the hospital, rather than over a bank and possibly into the river.

Ed. Note: On page 6 of this issue of The Journal can be found a warning about carbon monoxide fumes and how to protect yourself from them. In the light of the above story I suggest that everyone read it.

New Post Office To Be Built At Hillsboro

Postmaster General Arthur E.
Summerfield and William D.
Workman, Postmaster, announced today that a contract has been signed for a new Post Office Building in Hillsboro, West Virginia.

The new quarters, which will be under construction in the near

Post Office Department by Mr.
Ralph H. Burns of Hillsboro.
Completion date is expected to be about June 1961.

To be located on Main Street,
this new post office structure will contain about 1,108 square feet of interior space and ample space for parking and truck maneuvers. The present quarters provide only 440 square feet of space.

The Postmaster General stated,
"this is another step in the Post

QUESTION: Some friends of ours are do-it-yourself experts and constantly are dropping such seemingly foreign words as miter, plum, suage, mortise, and fret into our conversations about home projects. We're just beginning to put together a workshop. Could you define these terms so we won't feel so inferior?

ANSWER: The words you have cited (you've misspelled several) are just a few of many in glossary of carpenter's expressions that seems to grow every year. Here are the definitions (and correct spellings) of the ones you mentioned:

Miter—A joint formed by two pieces of material with angled ends, such as you see at the corner of a picture frame. The joint generally is at a 45° angle.

A mortise is a notch or cut in a piece of wood or material.

Plumb—This usually refers to making materials or structures perfectly vertical.

Mr. Looker said taxpayers cannot use Form 1040A if they (1) claim status as "head of household" or "surviving spouse"; (2) claim credits for dividends received or retirement income; (3) claim exclusion for "sick pay"; (4) paid on estimated tax during the year; (5) claim travel, transportation or other expenses; (6) not use the cash method; (7) nonresident aliens; (8) are delinquent in filing their returns; (9) are subject to self-employment tax; or (10) itemize deductions, or if spouse itemizes deductions on a separate return. Mr. Looker said if the taxpayer computes his own tax and an additional tax due, a check money order, payable to "Internal Revenue Service," must accompany the return. Taxpayers who have questions are subject may get Document 1107, "Filing Your Tax Return," by writing to Internal Revenue Service, P. O. Box 950, Richmond, West Virginia. Mr. Looker said.

Spelunker Trapped In Cass Cave; Finally Rescued By Volunteers

Four Princeton University students, all experienced "spelunk-ers", decided to spend their between semester holidays exploring Cass Cave. They had read about the cavern in a national speleological publication and, like most cave explorers, wanted to look it over just because it was there.

The young men arrived in the Pocahontas County Saturday. On Sunday at about 2.00 p.m. they entered the long narrow passage to what some know as "Succid-Cave". This crawlspace was wet and muddy but they inched along, dragging their ropes and paraphernalia behind them. Instead of following the underground stream in the lip of the 150 ft. falls the four young men took the high road a passage that emerges some 50 ft. higher up than the top of the falls. This route is taken by spelunkers because it is dry and safer.

From the 200 ft. elevation the young men lowered their climbing rope to the floor of the "big room". Although the rope was wet and muddy one of the boys (Roger A. Wicand of Villa Park, Ill.) made the descent and returned to report everything O.K. The next had to go down was William F. Isherwood of Bladensburg, Md. He got down all right but found, when he started back, that the mist from the falls had turned the mud on the rope to a slimy mess that kept his "climber" from holding when he tried to ascend. After trying for some time to find some ways and means to get Isherwood back up, the three on top decided more help was needed. While one of them remained on the scene the other two crawled back outside to get aid. The time was then about midnight.

Corp. Talbott and Trooper and-tanta, Harry Mahoney and Ken Arbogast. Ed Baldwin and Bill Brock of Dunmore were there, as was Ted Liffe and Cliff Coff Bailey of Cass. Also in ping were Dr. C. M. Wade, Dr.

Sebastian Von Hoesser and Dr.
F. D. Drake of the Astronomy
Center at Green Bank and Wayne
Ware of Marlinton.

Several of the more hardy volunteers entered the crawlspace and made their way to where Isherwood made his descent. According to one of them it was impossible to communicate with the trapped man because of the roar of the waterfall and, although National Forest emergency lamps were used, it was also impossible to see the bottom because of the fog thrown up by the cascade. When the rescuers shouted to the Princeton student it sounded like they were "bollerin' down a rain barrel".

Some time last summer the Astronomy Center group had dared to negotiate this same trip.
At that time they had spliced together a rope ladder for the trip down and back up the underground cliff. This ladder was found and after seven or eight

THE MARLINTON (W. VA.) POST

Lucille Bright Simmons Named As Pocahontas "Teacher of the Year"

Lucille Bright Simmons has been named Pocahontas County's "Teacher of the Year" for 1961. Mrs. Simmons, in her thirty-third year of teaching, is now teacher of the primary grades at the Seneca Trail School at Slaty Fork. And her patrons think her teaching ability, her interest in the control of her students and her among the best.

The program of honoring the teacher is part of the educational program of the Marlinton Women's Club. The committee on education reported on its activities and different sections of the County and was given a commendation of all the teachers realizing it could not recognize the merits correctly but wishing to make known to the teachers that their effort in the education of our future citizens are not unnoticed.

The 1961 honoree is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey R. Bright, of Marlinton, and is one of a family of ten, three boys and seven girls. She attended school in Marlinton where she was valedictorian of the graduating class of 1928 at Marlinton High School.

In high school she took the Normal Training Courses, and completed the Standard Normal Course of Study at Concord College in August of 1934.

She says she grew up with the idea of teaching school. Her father taught school when she was a very small child and was in the first of the old institutes, and she of her friends from her father would stay with the women who will do an extra mile. By honoring Mrs. Simmons we honor all members of the teaching profession who are giving of themselves in the training of our children, and may they rise to greater heights of service because they realize that patrons and friends are aware of the importance of their work in the future of our nation.

LOIS FENNANT NAMED HOMEMAKER OF TOMORROW

The 1961 Betty Crocker Homememaker of Tomorrow for Marlinton High School is Lois Fennant.

Having received a high score in a written examination on homemaking knowledge, activities taken by 25 junior seniors in her class, she has come a candidate for the title of Homememaker of Tomorrow which will be a title unveiled in March.

Each school Homememaker of Tomorrow will receive an award pin manufactured by Jovani and representing the slogan, "Home is Where the Heart Is". The examination papers of school Homemakers of Tomorrow will be entered in competition to name the state's Homememaker of Tomorrow.

The $110,000 homemaking education program sponsored by General Mills offers a $1,500 scholarship to the first ranking girl in each state and $500 scholarship to the state second ranking participant.

State Homememaker of Tomorrow and their family will receive an expense paid trip to the National Convention of the National Association of Homemakers in New York City.

All of her teaching has been in about five years.

In May 29, 1946, she was married to Clinton Simmons, of Mrs. Simmons is a member of the Mingo Presbyterian Church and a member of the Women of the adult class at Sunday School and conducts the Bible Study at Women's Meetings.

"As to my teaching," Mrs.
Simmons says, "I have tried to give my best. All teachers I have been privileged to teach with have been most understanding and helpful. The wholehearted cooperation of the community, both parents and friends of the school, has enabled us to have a very active P.T.A. group.
Through this group, our school has benefitted in many ways.
There are improvements to the lunch room, such as curtains and deep freezer. A movie projector and record player are other recent additions. These were financed by carnivals, cake walks, bake sales, ramp suppers, and the like."

This community cooperation is attested to by others also. Her patrons think her deep interest in and concern for her pupils have solved many a disciplinary problem. The school, once having all eight grades but now having only six, with two teachers, has served to hold together the people of the community in this outlying district.

County School Superintendent
M. K. Brooks, upon being in-

Moffett McNeels Win Top Place

Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Compton, co-winners of a 283 acre livestock farm in Pendleton County, are the 1960 top farm family in the 15 counties of the Farming For Better Living Program.

Announcement of the selection of the Compton farm operation as the Sweepstakes winner was made Saturday, February 1, at a moon banquet sponsored in Elkins by the Elkins Retail Merchants Association.

Mr. and Mrs. Compton, in addition to the certificate of achievement awarded to the Sweepstakes winners, received the Don Politz Challenge Award, an annual presentation of a savings bond by the president of Monongahela Power Company.

Announcement of the Sweepstakes winner concludes the award list for the 1960 Farming For Better Living year. At the same banquet Mr. and Mrs. J. M. McNeel, Jr. and Mrs. J. M. McNeel, Sr., of Hillsboro in Pocahontas County were announced as the regional winners for Region III of the FFLB, which includes the counties of Pendleton, Pocahontas, Upshur, Randolph and Tucker.

During the fall term of the 21 counties of the Farming For Better Living program honored a local August Regional winners are selected from past county winners and the Sweepstakes winner from past regional champions.

Mr. and Mrs. Compton were Pendleton county champions in 1959 and champions of Region

III in 1951. Their farm operation has shown a steady growth through the years except in 1956 when the farm suffered a major setback in a barn fire that destroyed the barn, 2,000 bales of hay, and 61 head of cattle. The beef herd is now, however, back to the number kept on the farm at that time. They have a basic cow herd of 15 Hereford and Shorthorns, Yearlings and two year-olds are marketed. The swine herd of five brood sows produced 84 pigs last year.

Mr. and Mrs. Compton are active in civic affairs and community affairs. Mr. Compton is chairman of the Potomac Soil Conservation District and the excellent condition of his pastures and meadows reflect that interest. He is a director of the Tri-County Fair Association, a member of the Farm Bureau, and church treasurer. Mrs. Compton is the president of her Farm Women's club, treasurer of the Women of the Church and a Sunday School teacher. They have one daughter, Nancy Jo Bohner, who is teaching school.

ES WINNERS

Farmers For Better Living is now in its twenty-first year. It was started in 1941 as a means of dramatizing the recommendations of agricultural experiment stations for improving farm income. At the top level it is sponsored by Monongahela Power Company and the Agricultural Extension Service of West Virginia University. On the local level the program is sponsored by county business and civic leaders who administer the program through a local county FFBL council of which Paul W. Harddock is the current chairman.

Brown McCarty, son of Lynn McCarty who lives at the home of Moody Moore at Huntersville, West Virginia, was selected as Star Farmer for the Marlinton Chapter of the Future Farmers of America. He is reporter for the Marlinton Chapter of the FFA. He has earned the following enterprises during the past two years: Feeder Calf, Strawberries, Sheep, and Hay. He is carrying the following enterprises this year: Feeder Calf, Strawberries, Sheep and Corn. He will be presented a certificate and a cash award at a later date.

If such a person has a job, it is likely to be trouble on his job. Gossip intrudes with it. Living and others are hurt. Green goes on to say prominently is even crowded with people who are busy, but one is one too many for a community." He asks in with a dozen or so local citizens who were thrown out of work when the big mill shut down.

This is followed by movies of the railroad and of the trip to the top of the mountain taken last October by the interim committee of the legislature and others. Several county residents who went on this trip are readily identifiable in this segment.

After the film has been shown Killoran brings the action back to the studio by asking the panel members their views on the matter. This discussion takes up the remainder of the time.

In an informal discussion before the show Conservation Commissioner Wenden Laue was asked why he was opposed to the Cass railroad project and he claimed he was not opposed—that since he had the facts and figures he thought the idea practical. When your editor confronted him with the statement he was quoted in the Beckley papers as having made—that he would rather build a railroad around Bluestone reservoir and the New River Gorge than keep the railroad at Cass—Laue said he had been misquoted and what he actually said was that he thought a scenic railroad at New River Gorge or Blackwater Falls would be more profitable.

Laue also told the local contingent that "if you can generate as much steam on the Williams River project and others as you have on this you can probably get anything you want. There are any number of potentially good projects around over the state that will never be realized because of the failure of local residents to fight for them".

Marlinton-Hillsboro To Play Extra Cage Game

According to Harry "Hooper" Anderson, Jr., coach of the Hillsboro "Red Devils", Marlinton and Hillsboro will meet a third time on the basketball court this season. The game will be played at Hillsboro on Wednesday, Feb. 22, at 8:00 p. m.

Since Marlinton was advanced to the Double A bracket this year they will play in the AA tournament at Webster Springs on March 2. This leaves only Hillsboro and Greenback to play a single game on Friday, February 24, at Hillsboro for the Class A sectional championship. In the three games played this year with Marlinton and Hillsboro the Golden Eagles have won them all.

Marlinton will meet Greenback on the 25 H.S. floor Friday. This will be their final meeting of the season.

NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS

According to "Postal Regulations" Concerning Expired Subscriptions copies will be accepted for at the postal rates of postage for a period of six months. If a subscription has expired and the publisher attempts to deliver the publication after six months to obtain payment, a promise to pay for a renewal.

Abiding by these regulations says Postmaster Ed W. another of the practice, we enable him to operate a up-to-date post office and more adequate service.

Therefore, in cooperation with the post office department must discontinue a subscription which has not been renewed during that period of time.

BENNIE GAY INJURED IN MOTORCYCLE MISHAP

Bennie Gay, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Gay of Edray, was injured Tuesday night about 11 p.m. when his motorcycle, which he was riding, crashed into a car on Route 219 between Marlinton and Campbelltown.

The car, belonging to Eugene Pifer, had run out of gas and was left parked along the highway without lights. Bennie was coming towards town when his lights failed and, not seeing the car, hit it.

He was brought to the Pocahontas Memorial Hospital by an unidentified motorist who was staying at El Poca Motel. He suffered a broken right wrist, a bump on the head and bruises. He is in satisfactory condition at the hospital.

Dive Bomber Pilot To Expose Communist Threat To Marlinton

As chairman of a committee organized by the then young town history club it was his job to organize, if possible, a library. With the aid and help of my constituents, which I am proud to say included our present mayor, the town and then County School of Schofield Eric Wahl looked for a room. He was given the use of one of the high school which is now the "branch" room, the room used as the polling

Attempt Being Made To By-Pass Elk Mt. Slide

The State Road Commission is busy finishing a project started some time ago and keeping its collective fingers crossed as to the final result.

For many years there has been a recurring slide on U.S. 219 about two-thirds of the way up Elk Mountain. Time after time the hillside has given way leaving a dangerous gap in the highway. Repeated shoring and filling gave only temporary relief.

Engineers claim that the cause of the slides was the fact that there was a huge round boulder under that section of the road and there were only two solutions.

1. The cheapest way would be to drill and blast the big boulder to bits and thus remove the slick surface. The danger in this idea was that the entire boulder might also slide down the mountain leaving no road at all. Since there was no way to detour traffic around the area this was a big gamble.

2. The next choice was to cut back into the mountainside far enough to get away from the slide area. This not only would assure a continued traffic flow but, by also cutting into the bank on the curve above, would help straighten out the road. Although this was more expensive it was about the only thing the Road Commission could do. Several large pieces of equipment are being used on the job.

Fred Harris is hauling away the rock and dirt from the cut and using the material to fill in a gulley between his garage and the highway near Riverside. It is said he plans to install a filling station and truck stop on the completed land fill.

Ham And Bacon Show And Sale Tonight

Final preparations are being made for the Thirtieth Annual County 4-H Ham and Bacon Show and Sale set for Thursday, March 16 in the Marlinton High School gym.

The judging of the entries will begin at 11:00 p.m. with Joseph G. Kuch, Extension Animal Husbandman, West Virginia University, grading the meat. Col. King Dunlap of Lewisburg will again auction the sale, which will get underway at 8:00 p.m.

A total of 17 4-H boys and girls from throughout the county have prepared 48 sugar cured and smoked, 12 sugar cured unsmoked and 56 loaves for the show and sale, making this the largest ever held in the county.

Those with entries are as follows: Rose Marie, Sam, Martha and Edward Sheets, Green Bank; Robert and Joyce Matheny, Green Bank; Daneth Coleman, Green Bank; David Waybright, Green Bank; Carolyn Wenger, Arboreale; Roger Galford, Lanesville; Eddie Lee Pyles, Huntersville; Alice, Loney, Virginia and Wanda Fiederswood, Beaver Creek; Phyllis Holdson, Linda and Peggy Malcomb, Bill Shelton, Howard McLaughlin, Henry and Jean Burr, Thelma McComb, Huntersville; Lonnie Armstrong, George Bruce, Carolyn Rhoad, Wilma Hay, Buckeye; Solle Workman, Lucy Jane and Gerald Gladwell, Hillsboro; Virian Shire, Drump; James Johnson, Marlinton; Ronald Wilfong, Jo Ann and Nick Ciesola, Rizer and Dolan Trine, Rodney Gardner, Clarys Dale; Dave, Mike and Judy Shaw, Gibby Sage, Elk Route, Marlinton; Steve Gibson, Linda Woodruff, Tucker Reynolds, Slats Rock; James McComb, Beaver Creek; Larry McLaughlin, Lanesville and

Local Concerns Purchase Champion Ham, Bacon

The Annual Pocahontas County Ham and Bacon Show and Sale held last Thursday in the Marlinton High School Gym, proved quite successful with strong local

ex. Mack Brooks, J. Z. Johnson and James Nottingham of Pocahontas County, and C. W. Rnehart, Montgomery; and C. E. Cunningham, Lewisburg.

This year, for the second time, a number of unsmoked hams were entered in the show and sale
